The Daily Courant.

Thurſday, July 12. 1722.

London, July 12.
Yeſterday arrived a Mail from France.

Lisbon, June 11.

ON the 4th Inſtant the King, accompanied by his Brothers the Infantes Don Franciſco and Don Antonio, the Knights of all the Military Orders, the Principal Officers, of all the Tribunals, and Chief Nobility of the Court, aſſiſted in the Patriarchal Church of this City at the Proceſſion of the Hoſt, and afterwards at High Maſs pontifically celebrated by the Patriarch. The 6th being the Anniverſary of the Birth of the Prince of Brazils, the Grandees of the Kingdom, the Nobility, and Chiefs of the Tribunals, had the Honour to kiſs their Majeſties Hands. The Regiments of Horſe in this City exerciſed on the 7th at Pedroços, the King and the Infantes being preſent. The Ships of Holland which arrived laſt Week in this Port wait only for a fair Wind to proceed on their Voyage. A Fire happened on the 6th Inſtant at Night, in the Docks to the Eaſtward of this City, and entirely conſumed them: The Sparks occaſioned ſome Damage to the Marqueſs d'Angeja's Houſe, but through timely Help the Fire there was ſoon extinguiſhed. Advices from the Eaſt-Indies, by way of Holland ſay, that the Viceroy Don Franciſco de Saint Payo was aſſembling Troops in order to deſtroy the Ports of Angaria, and to ruin the Forts, and 'twas hoped, if that Enterprize ſucceeded, that the Commerce of Places belonging to the Portugueze in the Indies would be conſiderably improved. The Problematical Academy at Setubal employed part of their Conference on the 31ſt paſt, in examining, If a falſe Friend is more to be feared than a declared Enemy? The Doctors Jerome Alphonſo Botelho, and Clement Rodrigues Montanha, diſtinguiſhed themſelves by their Diſſertations on the two Parts of that Propoſition, and afterwards Verſes were read on the Heroick Actions of Don Franciſco d'Almeyda, firſt Viceroy of the Indies, who was cruelly maſſacred by the People at the Cape of Good Hope.

Hambourg, July 10. The Commiſſaries appointed to examine and give Judgment on Count Rantzau's Affair, wait only the coming back of the Expreſs that was ſent lately to the Court of Denmark, upon whoſe Return they will renew their Proceedings againſt the Count, who by his late Conduct has rendered himſelf more and more ſuſpected; and 'tis generally believed, he will not be able to get clear of the Daniſh Juriſdiction, altho' he is a Count of the Empire, eſpecially conſidering that the Crime he ſtands accuſed of was committed in the Dominions of Denmark. It is hoped that the contended Succeſſion to the Dutchy of Ploen will be decided by his Daniſh Majeſty, who is Chief of that Houſe, to the mutual Satisfaction of both Parties; neither is it doubted but the Emperour will acquieſce with that Deciſion. Letters from Dantzick give an Account, that the Duke of Mecklenbourg continues yet in that City, and that Colonel Vittinghoff, whom the Duke had ſent to Moſcow, is now returned to Dantzick, accompanied by ſeveral Ruſſians. Advices from Konigsberg ſay, that ſeveral Ruſſians of Diſtinction went lately through that Place, and that ſome of them deſigned to go to Vienna: Thoſe Paſſengers report, that the Czar will not ſtay long in the Expedition he is gone about; that 'tis probable he will meet but little Oppoſition, and that he has given Orders to have 1000 Poſt-Horſes laid ready upon the Road, to ſerve againſt his Return to Moſcow.

Paris, July 15. Cardinal d'Acunha has hired the Hotel d'Entragues, in the Suburbs of St. Germain, next to the Hotel of Extraordinary Ambaſſadours: When the Cardinal was at Verſailles, the King cauſed the Water-Works to be played for his Eminency's Entertainment; he was alſo ſhewn the Gardens and Park in a Caleſh drawn by Switzers, whom he gratify'd with 20 Louis d'Ors. It is aſſured, that the Subject of his coming is to concert a Treaty of Marriage between the Infanta of Portugal and the Duke of Chartres. M. Anjoran, a Councellour of Parliament, and deſcended from one of the moſt ancient Families belonging to the Gown, died here laſt Week. Mademoiſelle d'Orleans is returned from Val de Grace to her Abbey at Chelles, and has carried with her the two young Princeſſes her Siſters. The Biſhop of Laon's Mandate is newly publiſhed, and is very oppoſite to the Tenets of the Janſeniſts, whom he can ſcarcely endure in his Dioceſe. To-morrow, the Duke of Chartres, in Quality of Great Maſter of the Order of our Lady of Mount Carmel, and of St. Lazarus, holds a Chapter in the great Hall at St. James of the Hoſpital, and will admit there ſeveral new Cavaliers. The Court continues increaſing at Verſailles, and the Number of open Tables augment daily. The Cardinal du Bois being of the Number of thoſe who excel in Magnificence, he has lately given Direction for making 1600 Marcs of new Plate, beſides what he had in uſe before, and the beſt Workmen that can be got are to be employed on this Occaſion. The Duke d'Antin, who had a very great Number of the India Company's Actions at the Viſo, beſides 1,500,000 Livres in Contracts upon the Town-Houſe-Annuities, has conſigned the whole to the King's Profit. Great Preparations are making at Rheims and the Places adjacent againſt the King's Coronation. It is reported, that by reaſon the Infanta Queen ſeems not to have her Health ſo well at Verſailles as in this City, ſhe will probably go to reſide at Meudon, in caſe ſhe continues the leaſt out of Order; and if that Place does not agree with her, ſhe will then return to the Louvre.

Paris, July 18. The Duke du Maine went the 13th Inſtant to Verſailles to viſit the Dutcheſs of Orleans; the Duke of Orleans and the Cardinal du Bois went likewiſe to that Princeſs's Apartment, and continued there a long Time in Conference; nevertheleſs, the Duke du Maine has not yet taken Poſſeſſion of the Apartment that was fitted up for him at the Palace. Letters of the 4th Inſtant from Marſeilles confirm the entire Recovery of that City from the Plague, and that the Inhabitants of the neighbouring Villages began again to carry thither their Goods to ſell as formerly. It is aſſured that the Comptroller General of the Finances having repreſented ſome Days ago in Council, that as Publick Credit and Commerce is beginning to revive, it is to be feared, that if the Tax and Scrutiny of Effects be resolved on, Things will relapse into greater Confusion than ever; which has occasioned several Councils to be since held to consider of this Matter, and To-morrow the Council is to take a final Resolution concerning it; mean while, the Clerks that were employed in making a new Dictionary for the Scrutiny, are now ordered to suspend that Work till further Notice. M. Peytac, the Man-Midwife, who was sent some time ago to Madrid to attend the Queen of Spain, writes from thence, that her Majesty not being with Child, he intends soon to begin his Journey hither. It is reported, that the Abbess de Chelles has a Mind to dispossess herself of that Abbacy, and that she has declared to the Cardinal de Noailles she is resolved to take on her the Carmelite Habit and to become a Nun of that Order. M. Beaudelot of the Academy of Belles Lettres is lately dead, and has left to that Academy, by Will, his Closet of Rarities. The Count de Windisgratz, the Emperour's first Plenipotentiary at the Congress at Cambray, and the Countess his Spouse, went to Versailles the 13th Instant, and the Cardinal du Bois presented them to the King: His Majesty went in the Afternoon to visit the Dutchess Dowager of Orleans at St. Cloud, from whence he came back on Horseback, and afterwards took the Air in the Park, accompanied by the whole Court, and the Count and Countess of Windisgratz, who were entertained with the playing off the Waterworks. The Duke de Chartres gave a magnificent Entertainment on the 14th to the chief Nobility, and on the 16th he held a Chapter of the Order of St. Lazarus, and admitted two Knights into that Society. The three East India Ships that are arrived at Port Lewis in Brittany, are reckoned to bring 14 Millions worth of Merchandize, and among them, 4 Millions worth of Silk. The notorious Robber Pellecier was executed Yesterday at the Greve. The Paper-Effects continue at their usual Prices.

Plymouth, July 8. This Day came in the Arabella of this Place from the Streights.

Liverpool, July 8. This Day sailed the Recovery for Archangel; Williamson and Marygold for Rotterdam; and Barbadoes Merchant for Virginia. Arrived the Windsor from Virginia for this Place.

Deal, July 10. The King's Ships are still here, Outward bound, King William for the South Sea, Alexander for Jamaica; Cadiz Frigate for Cadiz; Mary Galley for Antegoa; Surprise for Gibraltar; and Dolphin for New-England.
